Stagg Field, Chicago.—Before a crowd of 22,000 that jammed every inch of the Stagg field, East met West today when Princeton took the field against Chicago in the biggest football spectacle the midwest has known.

Thirty-two thousand persons were in their seats when the teams trotted onto the field for practice, while thousands milled around the gates outside. Hoping by some miracle to obtain a stray ticket. Scampers who evaded the hundreds of detectives on guard, received as high as $100 for a ticket.

World Save Tickets
Princeton was described as somewhat handicapped in that, determined to make up for last year's defeat at Marston hands, Coach Roper was desirous of retaining his best tricks for Harvard and Yale later in the season.

Klein Loses in Fight for $250 Higher Pension

Henry C. Klein, former fire chief and city electrician, lost his petition on a writ of mandamus, procuring a pension of $250 per month, in the Rock county circuit court, which he demanded the trustees of the firemen's pension fund pay $250 a year to him from the date of his retirement in 1918. The decision was handed down by Judge George Grimm Saturday.

Refuses All Checks
Klein retired from his dual offices Feb. 1, 1919, and his pension was fixed at $650 a year. He refused to accept the pension checks claiming that he was entitled to $900 a year—the additional $250 being claimed by him as salary as chief electrician. The checks were made out each month by the city clerk with the pension basis of $650 a year, and the city treasurer has consistently refused to cash them. The firemen's pension fund was created on Jan. 28, 1908 and the relation's pension carried the contention that Klein had paid into this fund one percent of his salaries as both chief engineer and city electrician. After having served 22 years in the department Klein petitioned for retirement.

OHIO TO REDUCE REPUBLICAN LEAD

Discontent With Harding Administration Apparent in Home State.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1932, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Columbus, O.—Ohio, like Indiana, shows symptoms of protest not against Harding.

the man so hard as the administration which has failed to approximate the Utopia dreamed of by an impatient electorate and has thrown off the shackles of democracy in 1929 and called for a change.

The writer traversed northern Ohio a month ago and noted evidence of a forthcoming reduction in the republican majority of 400,000 but did not get the impression that turn-over sufficient to elect the democratic ticket was in the cards at all.

Today the situation is plainly different. Confessedly so, by sending the cabinet here to speak. Some of these cabinet members have helped but some have hurt. It was very unwise, for instance, for the postmaster general to make that speech which in effect said Wilson and the Kaiser had identical instincts in common.

Politically it was unwise, however, convinced Dr. Wood may have been of the accuracy of his comparison. For when one penetrates Ohio one finds the republican party filled with former democrats who bolted in 1920. Some of them have been disillusioned and are going back. Many of them would stay in the republican party if not driven into the arms of the democratic workers. Typical among these are the former democrats who are now deep in the pockets of Woodrow Wilson and who are riled when they hear of a speech mentioning in the same breath one man who counsels submarine warfare and Zeppe raids and another who counsels peace, whose political maneuvers may have been overzealously executed but who cannot be charged with the crimes that the Kaiser wrought.

Kaiser's Home.
The cabinet officers who invaded Ohio might better have been kept at home. They cannot overturn impressions formed by the voters after two years of observation. In any day the situation in Ohio would have been local if the cabinet had not intervened. It is essentially local because the administration of Governor Harry Davis, republican, is heavily popular. The situation in Ohio would have been local if the cabinet had not intervened. It is essentially local because the administration of Governor Harry Davis, republican, is heavily popular. The situation in Ohio would have been local if the cabinet had not intervened. It is essentially local because the administration of Governor Harry Davis, republican, is heavily popular.

A Democratic Victory
Two polls being conducted by newspapers of importance in Ohio cannot be overlooked in calculating the result. One is being carried on by the Cincinnati Enquirer, owned by E. E. Aldrich, one of the intimates of the white house circle, and the other by the Columbus Dispatch, an independent newspaper. Both polls show about the same thing, namely, a democratic victory all along the line. The Enquirer poll is based on a percentage basis and taking into account the registration of this and other years, the Columbus Dispatch figures would seem to indicate a democratic victory of about 200,000 votes. Both newspapers have conducted polls in other years, using the same method of calculation, and they have been vindicated by returns on election day.

When these straw votes are taken to republican experts for comment they invariably say it's a reflex of the wet and dry fight in this state. Contrary to expectations, the referendum on light wines and beer is cutting a figure in this campaign which will make the final result on the gubernatorial and senatorial contests difficult to analyze.

Here, as in Indiana, one cannot overlook the sentiment of those more or less neutral "drys" who think law enforcement on prohibition is often carried to extremes and that a modification of the Volstead act would do no harm for the fundamental principle of prohibition.

Curry Referendum
Should the proposed amendment to the state constitution be carried, it would of course be an open question whether the act of Ohio conflicted with the federal constitution and with the Volstead law. But its significance would be blunted. The matter stands now Ohio has state laws for the enforcement of prohibition. An overwhelming victory for the beer amendment would be interpreted as a mandate from the people on the prohibition question as a whole and a weakening of the state enforcement machinery, a situation which would be parallel to that of New Jersey.

The wet and dry issue is complicating the party fights. The democrats will benefit by the wet vote. If national issues had not been injected the state would have given Carter Thompson a good sized victory. The republicans will be lucky to win by 40,000. No matter what the result, the democrats will be quick to say the Harding administration has been repudiated. There is little likelihood of a 400,000 victory or anything like it. Had the federal administration stayed out as it did in the primaries, it would have been easier to dismiss the matter with a wave of the hand and a comment on "local issues."

Hope of Democrats
Now the chances are that the Ohio returns will be used not merely by democrats trying to discover trend lines but by them for the 1934 election, but republicans in various parts of the country who have friends they wish to groom for the presidential nomination. They will argue that Mr. Harding's administration isn't strong in his own state and they will constantly refer to the figures of this autumn. There is in the Ohio situation questionable strategy on the part of the republican managers and they will have much explaining to do even if the gubernatorial and senatorial fights are won by the republican nominees.

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo Obesity. The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of aliveness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of field-frying elements perfected by one of the foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same, pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet taken after eating and at bedtime. They help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, controlling their accumulation, build flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola's Tablets really regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial can not do, and the fat, once reduced, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all drug stores or sent by mail to The Marmola Company, 4823 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. A 50-cent booklet to bring results—is but one dollar.

Pictures to be seen here during the coming week—there are no stage attractions booked—are mainly all familiar and so much enjoyed that most people know about them. All three of the week's big features—one at each theatre—are recent films, some having just concluded large runs in the cities, while others are still playing big time. All are excellent attractions.

Crisp fall weather brings many to the theatre, and the summer early fall fall is now over. If the sun supply is running low and the house is crowded, there are always the warm theatres to go to. The former "air-cooled" atmosphere which drew them off the hot streets is now run through a furnace.

Milwaukee is to have a week of Lieber in Shakespeare. It remains to be seen how much Milwaukee cares for the Bard of Avon. We have so few opportunities to see Shakespeare on the stage that it might intrigue some of the students of English literature.

May Valentine was pleased over the reception here at Janesville to Robin Hood. She adds to the picture that I thank you for the very splendid write-up you gave to Robin Hood and assure the audience most sincerely appreciate it.

Janesville is now assured one more stage attraction in addition to the already lengthy list. This is "The Temporary Husband," a comedy which made a big hit in New York and other cities. It is pure comedy and will be probably much appreciated by a Janesville audience. It is shown here at the Myers Nov. 12, the date when "The Circle" was first to have appeared, but which was changed to some time in December.

The reception which the city gave Sousa and his band and "The Circle" shows that it is hungry for good theatricals, and will respond well to any high class attraction brought to the city. It is hoped that managers will appreciate the fact and book shows which will make the year a pleasant one. Janesville is not content to look to Chicago for people to run in there and see a show, but it is close enough to hear all about the best ones, and want to see them.

AT THE MYERS.

"Blood and Sand," much heralded and anxiously, but not long-awaited, will be the attraction at the Myers next week, playing there four days. Seldom has a picture made such an impression as has "Blood and Sand." It is a picture which has a limit before it opened in even the metropolitan cities, and so the audience here is much more than expected. Milwaukee has called the picture back as it was about to leave, three different times, and it is at this time playing a number of Chicago theatres. At one of the loop theatres opened in Chicago, the sidewalks were lined for a block or more every day.

"Blood and Sand" can hardly be classified as a "spectacle." It is much stronger and more powerful, with a stronger story than most spectacles. It is an immense production, and the scenery and costumes are carried out with infinite detail. The story is the one of romantic and colorful Spain, written by V. Blasco Ibañez, also author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "Enemies of Women," which is now being made into a picture. It was also a stage success, made so by Carlos Siliere as the Toreador. Valentino himself is perhaps more fitted for the part of the hero than was Siliere, and his performance is said to be equally fine.

Valentino has arrived at that stage of popularity where he is being analyzed, and his appeal to most women discussed. His entire career has been a rapid succession of pictures in which he proved a sensation, until now he has reached the peak. Every incident of his life is discussed. He is psycho-analyzed by experts, he is dragged through the dust by jealous young men who dare not take their sweethearts to the theatre if he is shown. After being mis-treated a few times, he is now in the perfect role for him—that of pure romance with two women fighting for his love. The beauty of Spain and the thrill of the bullfight are seen in background for this straightening out of the triangle.

Nita Naldi as Donna Sol, the unsuccessful suitor for Juan Gallardo's affection, does the most notable work of her career. In "The Name of the Law" and "The Circle," she was good; in the same part in "Experience," she was better; now in that part in "Blood and Sand," she executes a marvelous performance. Her snaky movements, her slanted and roving eyes make her a perfect temptress, and were it not for the pure and attractive beauty of Carmen, played by Lila Lee, it would be hard to imagine anybody, especially with the temperament of Gallardo, rejecting her.

"Wedding Pumpkins" with Dany Peggy will begin added attraction.

Those people who liked "The Loves of Pharaoh" here two weeks ago, will like "Above All Law" for it also is a European production. Although many poor European pictures have been seen here, when one is good, it proves a most unusual, and in most cases a stupendous picture. "Above All Law" is such a picture. The stars in it are well known in their native countries and have won fame through excellent acting ability. The scenery is massive and beautiful, especially some of the sets showing the enormous buildings of India, reproduced in detail. The story is of recent life, of English and Indian relations.

AT THE BEVERLY.

"In the Name of the Law" is one of these pictures of family life that is rare and more coming to the public favor. People like to see in pictures, a story in which they themselves might find in real life, for it is said that all people go to the theatre to imagine themselves in the main roles. The complications in "In the Name of the Law" are those that might come into any family.

The father and mother are both hard-working people trying to buy a cottage in the country. Two sons are also working, one attempting to get through college, another helping him. The daughter's pay check swells the family funds and all seems to be going well until the college son is accused of stealing a roll of bills. The father, a policeman, is forced to stand by the law rather than by his son, who is threatened with arrest. When the father discovers that the mother sold her son by sending the money to him that was missing, he beats her and leaves the house. With these complications the picture moves along fast until it is discovered that the roll while the usual short features will be added to "The Snowshoe Trail."

AT THE APOLLO.

What "The Old Nest" did for the mothers, "Remembrance" does for the fathers. For once the father comes in as a star, and not as a background with his hands in his pockets, to let most of the time. He has such a part during the first of "Remembrance," but comes in for his share of the attention of the family and others at the end. In fact, not until he has saved most of his life to give his wife and children what they want, and then has a nervous breakdown, does the family show any regard for him. Then they are all attention and love.

Rupert Hughes wrote and directed "Remembrance." This well-known author first tried this method in "The Old Nest," which proved to be a sensation. Perhaps one of the most noticeable effects of having an author who knows people direct a picture is the naturalness with which all the characters act. This is especially noticeable in "Remembrance," and the picture profits thereby.

Humor plays a large part in the picture, and some of the scenes in the father's life in society life are extremely laughable. Then there are "kid" scenes that are good places for children.

Claude Gillingwater, Patry Ruth Miller and Cullen Landis as they appear in Goldwyn's production of Rupert Hughes' "Remembrance," one of the big pictures of the new season

Claude Gillingwater, co-star with Jackie Coogan in "My Boy," at the Apollo this past week, is the star of "Remembrance." His excellent character portrayal is aided by that of others in the cast—Kata Lester in the mother, Patry Ruth Miller and Cullen Landis as the two sweethearts, and others in the minor roles.

Excellent attractions on Friday with the opening of the week-end vaudeville bill, bring large audiences. "Disraeli," starring George Arliss, was immensely enjoyed, it being one of the outstanding pictures of the year, while "Fair Lady" this week promises to be another well-liked picture. For next week, Friday Manager James Zanias has contracted "Carnival," an unusual picture of the life of an actor. It is a European production, or rather an international production, for it is made by a company that tours Europe and practically all of the world to get good locations. The company has headquarters in London and is thus able to get true locations of famous places on the continent, which give an added attraction to the acting of the stars they have secured.

The setting of "Carnival" is in Venice and the scenes which are shown in the picture, the story is that of a Shakespearean actor who is playing him. The night after the discovery, he all but kills her in her part as Desdemona, but explanations follow, on the night of the wild carnival, when the whole city is in gala attire, and a reconciliation is made.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

On Sunday and Monday, the Majestic is showing "Trimmed," starring Hot Chibson, popular star in western pictures. Special interest is attached to this picture because of the fact that it is in a minor role is Maxine Fisher, former Janesville girl, now in California. The story is one of life in a small western town, of political bosses, and in the end, their defeat. Miss Fisher, who lived in this city with her mother until two years ago, has been in many other pictures, and has co-starred in several.

BLAINE APPOINTEE LOSES FIRST STEP IN OUSTER ACTION

(By Associated Press.)
Madison — Dr. Robert B. Cunningham of Cadot, appointee of Gov. J. J. Blaine as a member of the Wisconsin Board of Medical Examiners, late Friday lost the first step in the court battle brought to cause his removal from office on the ground that the governor had failed to comply with the statutes in appointing him. Judge James Wickham of the 19th Wisconsin circuit overruled a demurrer interposed by Cunningham to the complaint of the state, alleging that Governor Blaine, by naming a man whose name had not been certified by one of the three medical associations of the state, had violated the law. R. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, said the court had given an answer, to bring the case to trial. Otherwise a court order would be entered removing him from office.

EXTEND RIFLE PRACTICE

Madison — Owing to the continuance of the favorable weather, the rifle practice of the Wisconsin national guard is to be extended from Oct. 31 to Nov. 30, the adjutant general's office announced Saturday. Units at Milwaukee, Manitowish and Rhinelander are particularly affected by Saturday's order.

ROCK CO. JUNIORS

WIN MANY PLACES

Five Out of First Seven Places Won by Rock County Youths.

Rock county boys and girls added agricultural prizes to the county by winning six out of the 10 prizes offered in the heifer livestock contest at the Wisconsin Junior Livestock exposition, which closed Saturday in Madison. Five of the first seven places, including first and second, went to Rock county, with 15 in the class.

Considering that Archie Templeton, earlier in the week, won both grand championships in the same division, Rock county stands first as a winner at the junior exposition with her junior exhibits.

With the present record as a foundation, plans are now being formulated to have 300 Rock county juniors in club next year—the junior clubs being one of the most important projects in the farm development program.

Edith Clark Wins.
Edith Clark, 10, continued her brilliant success with her justly famous calf, Snowbird Oak Lodge, for she placed first in the junior heifer class, and in the running for the junior championship honors, but lost out to John Hill, Tomah, whose Jersey calf carried breed and dairy type sufficient to win the grand championship here.

The cup award was between these two contestants and it was a long while before L. S. Gillette, Iowa, chose the Jersey calf from Monroe county.

The order of awards in the junior livestock contest was as follows:

- 1—Edith Clark, Janesville, Rock county.
- 2—Alice Clark, Janesville, Rock county.
- 3—Walter Model, Verona.
- 4—Archie Templeton, Evansville, Rock county.
- 5—Gordon Hodgson, Arena.
- 6—Mildred Zick, Beloit, Rock county.
- 7—Robert Templeton, Evansville, Rock county.
- 8—Peter Templeton, Evansville, Rock county.
- 9—Joseph Hodgson, Arena.
- 10—Walter Model, Verona.

In the special class for yearling heifers, Edith Clark too second, with Stanley J. Clark, Dane county, first.

Club Places.
In the district livestock contest, Donald Capron, Beloit, placed second, with Gordon Hodgson, Arena, first, and Ralph Hodgson, third.

In the county club contests, Monroe was represented by a splendid herd of Jersey, all carrying a good uniform type that won first honors. The Holstein herd of Rock county was second, and Dane third.

In the championship awards, Thomas as Nelson, Janesville, won the best ribbon with a well fitted Jersey. The grand champion heifer calf honors was won by John Hill, Tomah, with a Jersey. This calf also was junior champion.

This show is a good example of what care and work will do for the livestock," declared J. A. Craig, speaking to the juniors and girls who met to improve farming. The next generation will have to farm better than the present to hold up agriculture. More is required now than in the past and more is expected.

Give Juniors the Best.
During his judging work, Judge Gillette stopped and pointing out a poor type calf, warned the owners of the following message: "It is a shame that this calf had to appear in this competition with such a poor type calf. It is not a fair show to him nor is it good advertising for the owner. To treat these boys and girls right, give them a fair show. They should have only the best types. Even an ambitious boy cannot make a poor calf for showing out of one that has little or no foundation. Be sure and select their right with good animals."

The boys and girls and their parents were entertained at a banquet at the university Thursday night, where prominent agriculture authorities spoke.

It is planned to call all agriculture teachers in Rock county schools, breed association officers and others interested in junior work for a conference to map out the 1923 program. The next year will be entertained at a Rock county banquet to be held in November, at which time the Gazette cups will be awarded.

Dairy Winners.
The winners in the other divisions for dairy calves were—Guernsey bull calf, Pearl Engler, Verona; Jersey bull calf, Pearl Engler, Verona; Jersey bull calf (16), Arthur Wallace, Belle Plaine; Jersey bull calf, John Hill, Tomah; Jersey bull calf, John Hill, Tomah; Jersey bull calf, John Hill, Tomah; Jersey bull calf, John Hill, Tomah.

New Enterprises Do Not Come Into a City Where Local Firms are Having Poor Success

If you were selecting a city in which to open up a new business, what would you consider? The very first thing which would make a good or bad impression upon your mind would be the success with which the firms already in that city were meeting. If that city had business houses struggling along on a "hand-to-mouth" basis, you would not give it a second thought. On the other hand, if the city has thriving, bustling, busy, concerns, you will give it long and studied consideration. But remember, that the success of business houses is determined by the support they receive from the public. This is true of Janesville manufacturers. If Janesville people will not support Janesville enterprises, how can Janesville ever expect to get new ones?

AND HERE'S HOW YOU MAKE IT: While the drawing for this motor-driven jig saw looks quite complicated, a few moments' study of it will show that the project is not so difficult to make as it may appear.

The legs of the table are made of two-by-fours. They are all the same length, 33 inches, except for the one that supports the saw frame. It is 25 inches long.

After the legs have been cut to length and dressed, make the base pieces into which the legs are notched and fastened with bolts or lag screws. These base pieces are to be lagged to the floor to prevent vibration of the frame.

The spreaders for the legs are made next. Two of these, as you will note after studying the drawing, are notched into the legs. The other spreaders and the cross braces are fastened with screws only.

As the top is quite large, it will be necessary to glue several pieces of wood together. Fasten the top to the spreaders with finishing nails or screws.

The two saw arms are next. I have made a side-view drawing of the table and arms, and this gives the dimensions for the arms, as well as an idea as to the shape to which they must be cut. The saw arms are fastened to the long leg of the table with stove bolts. The strip of wood across the saw arms will furnish greater bearing than the heads of the bolts alone.

Bore a hole in one end of each saw arm to receive the holes that hold the saw blade in the arms. Part A, in the diagram, shows this hole in detail. To make these holes get two three-eighths inch square-head bolts, and with a hack saw, saw them off one

"For those boys who have no electric motor and therefore cannot make use of a motor-driven jig saw," Mr. Solar told us when he handed in this week's article. "I also have plans for a foot-power turning lathe, and a home-made drill press. All these I will be glad to send to any reader on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope."

Your letter will reach Mr. Solar. It addressed to him in care of this newspaper.

Each from the head. Then, again using the hack saw, saw slots for the saw blade and pin that runs through it. Finish and round the slots nicely with a fine knife file.

Cut a slot in the other end of each arm to receive the end of a turnbuckle. Short stove bolts hold the turnbuckle in place.

Place washers between all movable parts and under the heads of all bolts and lag screws.

The flywheel shaft, which runs under the table, you may have to purchase from a plumber. It is nothing more, however, than a piece of gas pipe threaded on both ends for pipe or stair rail flanges. One flange is to be fastened to the large wooden flywheel with screws, and the other is to be fastened to the short wooden shaft attached to the lower saw arm.

Four washers, one on each end of the shaft, are used for the bearing boxes of the shaft. The pieces are notched into each other, as you will observe, and the box is notched into the spreader on which it rests.

Fasten the parts of the bearing box together with quarter-inch bolts. Lay out the center for the shaft hole on both sides of the stock. Do this with a try-square. Then bore the shaft hole half way through from each side. This will prevent boring a hole that is not at right angles with the surfaces, lines and countersink an oil hole.

The bearing box is fastened to the spreaders with lag screws and bolts. The flywheel may be made of wood. You may saw it out by hand in your own shop, but I suggest that you take it to a wood shop where it can be properly centered and turned out on a lathe. Have the wheel crowned so that the belt will not slip off.

Bore a three-eighths inch hole in the table top for the saw blade. Connect the lower arm of the saw frame to the flange of the flywheel, using the short arm described in detail in figure B. This arm is made of wood and two pieces of metal. Fasten it to the flange of the flywheel with a stove bolt.

So that the flange cannot work off the shaft, it is well to bore a hole through the flange and shaft and insert a pin. On the end of the shaft may be battered with a hammer. Also, batter the ends of any bolts from which nuts might work off when the saw is being used.

Fasten the frame of the jig saw and the metal parts a dull black. You may finish the table top and saw arms with varnish or shellac, or leave them unfinished.

Attach the flywheel to an electric motor and you are ready to cut out most any kind of an article that requires the use of a saw a little more delicate than the hand saw.

NOTICE OF GENERAL ELECTION

STATE OF WISCONSIN
County of Rock

JANESVILLE, WIS., OCT. 28 1922
Office Of The County Clerk

TO THE ELECTORS OF ROCK COUNTY:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a General Election for State and County Officers is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock on the first Tuesday of November, A. D. 1922, being the seventh day of said month, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The name of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are to be given opposite the title of the office and under the proper designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to the booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth, or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath, in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example, as follows:

OFFICIAL BALLOT FOR GENERAL ELECTION

Mark a cross (X) in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote, if it be there, that you wish to vote for, in the proper place.

Said General Election will be held at the regular polling place in each precinct and the polls will be open in Janesville and Beloit at 6:00 o'clock in the morning and close at 8:00 o'clock in the evening. All other precincts from 9:00 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.

Given under my hand and seal at the Court House in the City of Janesville, this 28th day of October, 1922.

Launch Efforts to Regain City's Musical Fame of 40 Years Ago

Thirty men and women were guests of the music committee of the Congregational church here last Saturday night at a supper and informal gathering for the purpose of interesting singers, especially the younger people, in joining the organization.

All were enthusiastic in expressing their desire to assist in maintaining a high standard in the musical center in Janesville such as thrived 40 years ago. It is the ambition of local musicians to make "The Messiah" sung last Christmas under the able leadership of H. Fred, H. Stringer, Milton college, an institution.

One who has survived the vicissitudes in the musical history of Janesville in a few reminiscences give out some interesting facts with a more "do you remember" away back when—" "

Quartets were Popular. Yes, do you remember when quartet choirs were in vogue in the local churches and such names as Mesdames J. W. St. John, C. E. Yates, C. E. Mosley, Amos Pritchard, H. A. Smith and A. O. Wilson, and Messrs. C. N. Van Kirk, William E. Ford, George Parks, L. J. Williams, D. D. Bennett and G. K. Collins made up the personnel of musical attractions.

The quartet choir 40 years ago was as necessary at musical as they are today. One who has outlived this popular form of singing says that the chorus choir of today has an advantage over the quartet in that better harmony singing is obtained in churches.

Mrs. St. John and Mrs. Yates were prominent members of the foursome which included either C. N. Van Kirk and George Parks or Frank L. Hayden and C. L. Clark.

Two musical events of 1886, an organ recital at the Baptist church, Jan. 1, and a musical Jan. 5 at Appleton, were under the auspices of the Girls' Social club. Included some of these singers, Mrs. Louise Falk, singing "The Bird Song" and Mrs. St. John and Mrs. Hayden "O Sacred Land," were leading numbers of the musicals.

Great Productions Given. These "magnificent" efforts of the musical world of Janesville were stepping stones to the aim to present something worthwhile in chorus production. It was between 1879 and 1880 that "Queen Esther," the first oratorio, was presented under the leadership of Prof. Charles G. Titcomb, Mr. Titcomb, now living in Los Angeles, Calif., is still teaching voice, although he is over 80. Patrons of music will also remember the presentation of "The Passion Play" by the Janesville Choral Union, as high light in music 40 years ago.

March 5, 1886, marked the zenith of musical accomplishment, for it was on that night that the initial presentation of Handel's majestic oratorio, "The Messiah," was sung at Riverside park. For months the Choral Union met several times a week at the Guards' armory. All Souls church of the Court Street Methodist church, for choralists. Twenty members of the society, in conjunction with the Rockford Choral Union, sang "The Messiah" at Rockford, Jan. 15, 1886.

Audience of 1,800. Before an audience of 1,800, 250 Janesville and Rockford singers gave a gala performance that has to this day dominated the annals of local music.

Such a 18-piece orchestra, Milwaukee, played for "the grandest musical event in the history of Janesville." L. A. Torrens, Boston, was impresario. Charles Knorr, Chicago, and Frank D. Rimmerman, Rockford, soloists. Mrs. Yates and Mrs. St. John sang solos, the latter giving "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." The closing number of part one was sung by Miss Hattie Dearborn, now Mrs. Harriet Dearborn, supervisor of music in the public schools of Cleveland, O.

Movies Start Singing. Comparing the times, the absence of music in the schools here today is conspicuous. James "Fischer," blind, a teacher of organ and piano at the school for the blind played an important part in the early history of music in this city. D. D. Bennett, a trained musician, a band master and choir leader, and Prof. J. Wolcott, who was an instructor of 1876. D. H. Grovo, who came here to teach in 1882, has since established himself as a teacher of voice in London.

The movies, automobiles and other inventions, diversions of the day, are given by the early disciples as transgressors into the musical sphere of Janesville. To be sure, 40 years ago there were the pole matches at the rink, dances at Larkin's hall, suppers at Usher's cafe, and the choral parties in the homes, but somehow folks found time to keep the world a-singing.

Steiner Named to "y" Convention at Atlantic City

Members of the Y. M. C. A. board, at a special meeting appointed Secretary J. A. Steiner as a delegate to the international Y. M. C. A. convention at Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 24-25.

As the finances of the association are low, two members of the board will pay his expenses. P. S. Baines, a member of the board, may go with Mr. Steiner.

World-famous speakers are on the program for the convention, which, it is expected, will be attended by 2,000 men from foreign countries. It may be decided to have three conventions smaller, as the present ones are too large to secure good legislation. Smaller and more representative conventions may be going.

The lot west of the present building, now occupied with bill-boards, has been rented to George Benwitz for his lunch wagon, now on the corner of Milwaukee and Academy streets.

A total of $11,300 is now reported as a result of the drive, and it is felt that as money for subscriptions will come in gradually, the budget will not have to be cut much.

The association will observe the national week of prayer, Nov. 12-19. Steiner reported the symposium classes going well, with much interest in evidence.

PLAN PARADE FOR HOMECOMING DAY

Vaudeville Stunts, Fire, Dance, Also Booked for Edgerton Game, Nov. 4.

Plans for a roving homecoming celebration in connection with the high school football game, which will be played Saturday, Nov. 4, were made at a meeting of committee heads of the alumni at the high school, Thursday afternoon. Alumni and present high school students will work together to secure a large turnout for the game and the several celebrations scheduled.

Friday night at 7:30 at the high school gymnasium, there will be a dance for alumni and high school pupils. There will be speakers and the team may appear. Cheers will be given, and those who have not yelled for years will have a chance to polish up on the "homecoming" and "allegro."

Parade to Field. Saturday's events will start with a parade from the high school to the fair grounds at 1:45, all those attending the game participating. The new junior high school band, conducted by Ralph Jack, and led by him, will lead the parade. This band has been practicing but a short time, but has already learned several selections and in another week will be ready for its first public appearance. Following the parade, there will be a football game, and after them, the auto parade. The entire parade will start early enough so that all will arrive before the game starts.

After the first half, the field will be cleared and a mock-football game will be put on. Players will be dressed in grotesque outfits and will play a brand of football never before seen. Dr. S. P. Richards, in charge of this, has already secured his players. There will also be a snake-dance and other stunts.

At 7 p. m., Saturday, at the new high school gymnasium, there will be an immense bonfire, jubilee and pow-wow. It is expected that the townspeople, whether alumni or not, will turn out for this. Some sort of a program will be worked up.

Dance at Night. At 9 p. m. in some large hall, there will be an alumni dance, the only social event of the celebration. A large number of patrons and patronesses are being asked. A good orchestra will be secured, and the price of admission made low enough to attract high school pupils and townspeople as well. Alumni will have opportunity here to get together. Invitations are being sent to a number of younger people, now in attendance at higher institutions of learning, to attend the homecoming and dance.

ings, while others are scheduled for the coming week. Program material furnished by the Good Times Club has been used at a number of these affairs.

The Bog school, joint district 2, located west of Janesville, in the town of Center, will have a box social and program, Wednesday evening, November 1. Miss Elsie Treen, 315 S. Bluff street, Janesville, is the teacher.

The Bennett school taught by Mrs. Maynard Hartford will have a Halloween entertainment Tuesday evening. It is hoped that the proceeds will be sufficient to pay for a victrola which pupils and teachers are very anxious to have included in the school equipment.

Libraries for Schools.
The Gazette has been called upon to cooperate with four rural schools that desire traveling library collections. The Grant school, application has been forwarded to Madison with a number of suggestions as to books that will not duplicate those in the school library. Applications have been received from Miss Dorcas Latta, Jefferson Prairie school, district 3, Clinton. Those will be forwarded to Madison with suggestions as to books that will not duplicate those in the school library.

Good Books for Boys and Girls.
The following books may be borrowed from the Free Library Commission by mail, or may be found in most of the local public libraries in southern Wisconsin.
Boys' Books:—"Boys' King Arthur," "The Boy Who Made a Hero," "The Boy Who Made a Hero," "The Boy Who Made a Hero."

Girls' Books:—"Heart of Isabel Carleton," "Girls of Highland Hall," "The Girl Who Made a Hero," "The Girl Who Made a Hero," "The Girl Who Made a Hero."

Bean Bag Games.
Many interesting games may be played with bean bags. Heavy material should be used, and if possible, the bean bags should be made of a heavy material. A bean bag game that may be played by several children at home is bean bag toss. Children sit in a circle on the floor, a distance of three feet from each other. A shallow box is placed in the center. Each player throws a bean bag endeavoring to get it into the box. The one who succeeds the greatest number of times during a given period, wins the game. Older boys and girls may draw a circle in the bottom of the box and each one try to throw the bean bag so that it falls inside the circle. In larger groups sides may be chosen and a point scored for successful throws.

Other bean bag games will be included in the November recreation program issued to local branches of the Gazette in the Good Times club in schools and other organizations.

Rural School Events.
Many rural schools cooperated in community health week programs, while others had special health exercises on Friday afternoon in connection with the weekly school society programs.

DAIRYING STARTED ON CUT OVER SOIL

Milk Herds Started in Northern Timber Sections of State.

Dairying is the coming industry of northern Wisconsin now in the process of development as settlers extend their clearing through the cut-over sections, the college of agriculture says in a bulletin.

"The horse and flock on a thousand hills will soon be as common a feature of the north Wisconsin landscape as they now are over the rolling hills of Rock and Walworth and the blue grass slopes of Green and Iowa counties," L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture, tells the farmers in a forward to the bulletin.

Open Up North.
"In opening up the new north to settlement," he said, "there are even greater possibilities than dairying will be fully as profitable as it has been in the older developed regions of the state. The silt and clay loams of the north are well adapted to resist the drought."

"Cooler climatic conditions on these highly productive soils favor the growth of clover and forage crops, so that abundant summer pastures and winter feed insure cheap milk production. The northern dairy counties are eagerly pushing the campaign for the eradication of tuberculosis and the upbreeding of the dairy stock."

"With such a start in the right direction rapid progress is inevitable. It needs no vision of a prophet to forecast the future under these conditions."

Advising the farmers of the district, the college in its bulletin says that "it will pay every farmer to keep a dairy herd if feed and care can be provided to insure profitable milk production."

"A cow to be well cared for must be treated kindly," farmers are advised. "Rough treatment greatly reduces the amount of milk. Protect her from cold, chilling weather and from storms and dampness, which are other causes of low milk production."

Why All Rock County Farmers Should Have Herds Tested!

1—To protect their own families from the fatal tuberculosis. Infected milk means infected children. Yours may be next.

2—Clean herds mean more money for the farmer for the reason they are worth more. Tubercular cattle will not pay the cost of keeping. Tubercular hogs will not make a profit. Chickens affected with tuberculosis are a loss.

3—Being the first Southern Wisconsin county to be fully accredited would put Rock county in the lead in this rich dairy district. Returns depend on dairy profits. Because of her fine herds and variety of livestock, Rock county would become truly the dairy center of the world, once fully state and federally accredited.

4—County-wide testing means full protection for all times and that the state and federal government guarantees the cattle to the prospective buyers and the healthy swine to the packers and buyers. It guarantees that human infection will be decreased.

Through the Removal of the Main Cause

5—MAKING ROCK COUNTY FIRST is the aim of every farmer. It is only through the agency of the county as a unit that farmers will be able to improve their stock sales and dairy returns. Butter, cheese and milk from an accredited county brings more and the county producing clean dairy products is advertised favorably through the sale of these products.

THERE IS SO MUCH MONEY RAISED FOR TESTING—REGARDLESS OF WHETHER ROCK COUNTY ACCEPTS THIS PLAN. COUNTY-WIDE TESTING WILL NOT INCREASE TAXES. IF ROCK DOES NOT TEST, THEN SOME OTHER COUNTY WILL AND ROCK WILL HAVE TO WAIT.

Boost for the County-Wide Test! It Will Pay ROCK COUNTY FIRST!

Sir Robert Stevenson Horne.

Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, British chancellor of the exchequer, will head his country's debt funding delegation to the United States. Horne is expected to take a leading part in arranging the methods and time of payment.

British politicians, with general elections coming as a result of Lloyd George's resignation, are puzzled over the effect the women's votes will have on the outcome. Feminine leaders, including Lady Astor, Lady Gordon, Miss Helen Fraser and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham are organizing the female vote and demanding sex and political equality for women. Lady Astor is a will be a candidate for the house of commons and it is considered likely that at least a dozen other women will make the race, including the other three mentioned above. The women claim that if all the franchise rights of men were conferred on women the number of women voters would total 14,000,000, two million in excess of the number of male votes. As it is but 6,000,000 women are enfranchised.

If Cincinnati university continues to have a poor season on the gridiron the Cincinnati barbers will be out some dough. At least three members of the U. of C. team, after suffering two defeats, pledged themselves to go unshaven until the team should win. The three are Jack Harrod, guard; Jimmy Nippert, center, and Robert Keith, halfback. When the photo above was taken Harrod and Nippert had been two games (two weeks) without a shave.

Andrew Bonar Law.

Andrew Bonar Law, taking up the British premiership laid down by David Lloyd George, faces many grave questions. The British war debts, including those due the United States, alone presents a problem. The Russian policy is still undecided. The formation of the Irish free state will reduce the next house of commons from over 700 members to over 600 and this change, with what new faces the general elections will bring, will give Law a strange under house to work with.

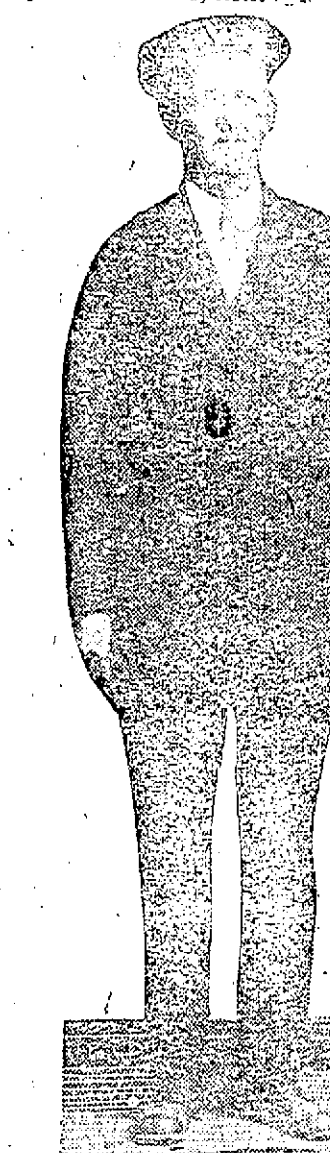

Marshal Pilsudski.

The Peasant party is supporting Marshal Pilsudski, present president of Poland, for re-election. The Conservatives favor Ignatz Paderewski, noted pianist-statesman.

Milton Eisenhower, whether you believe it or not.

Theodore Schiemann.

Theodore Schiemann, mayor of Liberty, Kan., has sued the township of Liberty for $10,000 damages for an attack made on him. He was taken from his place of business by unmasked men and horsewhipped. He says his assailants told him he was being punished for voting opinions against the Ku Klux Klan.

Mrs. Clothilde Le Roux McMahon.

A romance which was born on the shell-torn fields of France has been rent asunder. Mrs. Clothilde Le Roux McMahon, daughter of a wealthy Parisian, has been given a divorce from former Lieut. Charles J. McMahon. She charged that after she had saved his life on the battlefield he treated her cruelly.

Miss Mary Hone making up in her dressing room.

Another well known New York family has contributed a daughter to the stage. Miss Mary Hone, daughter of Augustus C. Hone, made her debut in a new melodrama, "R. U. R.," recently.

Rev. James L. Smiley.

The Rev. James L. Smiley, Episcopal clergyman of Annapolis, Md., has entered the Maryland senate race on the Socialist ticket. In 1916 he ran for congress on the same party ticket.

Mrs. Enrico Caruso and her daughter, Gloria, with the souvenir biography.

Perry Key, great friend of Enrico Caruso, the master tenor, has presented to Mrs. Caruso and daughter, Gloria, a biography of the late opera star printed in gold type.

Art Killam and Mrs. E. L. King.

Against the keenest competition ever experienced in the annual Grand American Handicap shoot these two marksmen won championships at this year's shoot at Atlantic City. Art Killam of St. Louis won the professional championship by breaking 197 out of 200 birds. Mrs. E. L. King of Wabona, Minn., won the woman's championship. One champion was dethroned, several new ones crowned and a score of records broken by the marksmen.

Ida Mae Haskins and her alleged abductor, Frank Rawlings.

Frank Rawlings, Independence, Mo., merchant, faces serious federal charges as a result of an auto trip he is alleged to have taken with Ida Mae Haskins, sixteen-year-old prize Missouri beauty, from his home city to Aurora, Ill. They were arrested there by federal agents.

Princess Marie.

The engagement of Princess Marie of Belgium and Prince Umberto of Italy has been rumored for some time, but the report has been denied in Belgian court circles. However, the official announcement is expected soon.

Frederick Edrupt.

Frederick Edrupt, seventy-five, now doorkeeper at the Middle Temple, London, amuses tourists by telling them of his experiences while working as an office boy for Charles Dickens, noted English author.

Benito Mussolini.

Benito Mussolini, once a Socialist leader and editor of a newspaper, renounced his former beliefs to organize the Fascist, a powerful group of young Italians whose sworn purpose is to oppose Socialism and every form of Bolshevism in Italy. He has been dubbed "Italy's Dictator."

The political sons of the "Big Four" who carried the destinies of their countries through the World war, one by one, have set. Premier Orlando of Italy fell first; Premier Clemenceau of France followed; President Wilson's party and candidate was defeated in the 1920 elections, and now, Lloyd George, "the greatest of them all," has gone down to defeat at the hands of his political opponents. Lloyd George may "come back," but the others seem "gone forever."

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Cooling System Leaks And Anti-Freeze

They Must Be Stopped Before Alcohol Or Glycerine Is Put In

SLIGHT LEAKS in the cooling system, which do not involve serious liability of "low water," may be permissible in warm weather, for it costs nothing to refill the system with water, but they are not to be tolerated during "anti-freeze time," for alcohol and glycerine are too expensive to sprinkle the road with. Before a non-freezing mixture is put in, the radiator should not only be thoroughly cleaned out, to avoid the danger of trapped water remaining therein, but the whole system should be made liquid tight. This involves the closing by soldering, of all radiator leaks, the replacement or tightening of all leaky hose connections and the repacking or tightening of the pump stuffing boxes, if these are not tight. There is a strong temptation to use some kind of cement or sealing compound to stop radiator leaks, but it is pretty generally agreed that this is at least a dubious expedient. It cannot be positively stated that there are no such preparations, that will accomplish their purpose, without producing evil effects, but it is well known, from actual experience that some of the self-sealing materials, even if they stop the leaks, obstruct the circulation and make soldered repairs difficult or impossible. A sealing material which would attach itself at the leak in a permanent manner and not cover the cooling surfaces themselves would seemingly be of value.

HOW OFTEN SHOULD BEARINGS NEED ADJUSTMENT?

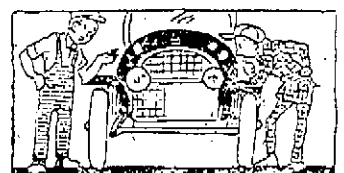

P. G. asks: How many miles should a Ford engine run before it should be necessary to take up the connecting-rod bearings? How about the main bearings? Answer: We cannot furnish you accurate figures in answer to either of your questions, but perhaps some of the large stations, which service this make, could give you some data on the subject. The frequency of the service enabled the ability of the driver, the effectiveness of the lubrication and the way the engine is put up at the factory, all vary so rapidly and give such a profound influence on the life of the bearings, that there are very great individual differences in the frequency with which adjustment is required. Average figures would have very little applicability to particular cases. When the engine makes a light tapping noise, especially noticeable when the car is running at low speed and the throttle is suddenly closed, so that the car "drifts," loose connecting-rod bearings may be suspected. A dull but heavy pounding noise, especially noticeable able when the engine is working hard at low speed, indicates loose main bearings.

FUSE PROTECTION FOR LIGHTING CIRCUITS

W. E. writes: A few evenings since, when I turned on my headlights, the left one did not come on at all and the right one just burned red and a lot of smoke came up through the floorboards, but after a moment, the right one burned bright, but the left one would not light. My mechanic told me that the wire to the left lamp was completely burned off and he had to replace it and that there was nothing to prevent this happening again. How can I guard against this trouble in the future? Answer: These wires are connected to the electrical service station and are them to put fuses in the lighting circuit for a single fuse to protect all these circuits. The fuse will melt before any wire ever burns and can be replaced by a new one very readily. Or, instead, a fuse can be put in a circuit breaker, which will prevent injury to the wiring and make a burning wire in too much current pass so that you can throw off the switches until the trouble is removed.

On Stormy Nights

At no time are the comfort and safety of Cadillac enclosed models more sharply emphasized than on a rainy night, either on country roads or in the press of traffic on the city's slippery streets.

It is then that you are thankful for Cadillac's easy certitude of performance, its instant response in emergencies—when brakes and clutch must hold, and when immediate pick-up and acceleration are essential.

The elements which give the Cadillac owner confidence under the very worst driving conditions may be summed up in the one word "dependability."
